Brandon's practice is focused on private mergers and acquisitions and general commercial matters. He also has significant experience advising public issuers on financings, compliance and governance matters, and, in conjunction with his broad commercial practice, enjoys assisting with the planning and implementation of tax efficient reorganizations of private entities.

Bringing a background in math and a keen interest in market and non-market economics and behavioral finance to bear in analyzing legal and business problems provides Brandon with tools to help clients solve legal and commercial issues they may face.

Prior to arriving at Beard Winter, Brandon practiced for five years at full service national law firms in Calgary and Toronto, focusing on private mergers and acquisitions and public issuer work. He also worked for the Office of the Official Opposition in the Province of New Brunswick, drafting the Province's Child and Youth Advocate Act while in law school. Brandon shares the 2004 Ludlow Hall Pairs Foesball Championship.
